

January 08, 2026: On Donald Trump's Growing Concern and Desperation

I am writing to factually record that, since the latest Epstein files began to be ordered to be released, I have personally witnessed an increase in desperate maneuvers and attention-grabbing techniques being used by the Donald Trump criminal operation to assert themselves as 'still being in control' of their criminal operation.

One 'tell' that I have noticed over time is that this team uses the method of throwing so many problems our lives with a constant barrage of things that we have to 'deal with' that they are able to keep 'skipping' on to the next crimes before we ever have an opportunity to fully explain the previous.

For example, before Donald Trump had finished waging his 'soft insurrection' up at the USA capitol in 2020, he had already announced that he was running for President in 2024.

Another example can be found more recently with the ongoing Venezuelan operations. Before we could hold them accountable for the murders of the first boat that they destroyed, they had already destroyed another. Then before we could hold them accountable for the second, they attacked a third.

On and on this went until Congress started demanding more answers, and the next thing we see, Donald's team has 'surrounded' Venezuela, then talk moved to 'ground operations' and then before anyone can catch up with their ongoing escalations, they had already swooped in to grab Maduro from his home.

Then what? Before we can even analyze what happened with the Maduro operation, they already began the talk about Greenland! (Now, the cars are increasing their agitations every single day again around our home. Donald is attacking everyone in a desperate attempt to free himself from our insightful understanding of his criminal methods.)

This is evidencing the ongoing pattern of committing so many crimes in so many different ways that they are literally using new crimes to cover up the investigations of their old crimes and on and on it goes.

So, let us return to the root of this ongoing crime spree that American Militurd Brass continues as it throws its criminal weight accros the world: Epstein and the use of young women as bait to lure political representatives and business leaders into honeypots that is later used in extortion to 'not see' the crimes of their peers.

This is the root of Nazi-ism. This is the true root of this ongoing crime spree and this is the root to which I recommend we all return instead of following these 'blind' leaders off of their cliff.

In summary, the more ridiculous actions that they make, the more you can trust that you are causing them to feel the heat.

Donald Trump is falling apart from within and he is attempting (desperately) to project himself as being 'in control' as an effort to soothe himself and his handlers.

Donald is failing now - and deservedly so. Donald Trump lied to all of us in his quest to become the most evil man on earth.

Now we can all see him for the truth and suddenly he wants to be Mr. Perfect? No, Donald, you are not perfect, you are not moral, and you are not innocent either.
